Description

About WaterAid

WaterAid is an international development non-governmental organisation whose vision is of a world where everyone has access to safe water, sanitation and hygiene. WaterAid began operations in Zambia in 1994 in Monze district as part of the response to the drought situation that ravaged the country in the early 1990s, resulting into among other problems, increased incidences of water and sanitation related diseases. A Country Programme Office was established in Monze district in 1994 and moved to Lusaka in 2001. The organization has a field office in Mansa, Luapula province and is currently developing the next 5 year strategy, with increasing focus on policy advocacy and influencing role, working across sectors, sustaining interventions and bringing about hygiene behavioural change.
